

Uncle Joe's Restaurant Sentence Strips.

In pairs, students match the sentence halves, and then put them in the correct sequence according to the movie. When they have finished, have them watch the movie to verify the sequence.

I'm going to visit my Uncle Joe	at his restaurant.
Many years ago	he became a farmer.
Now he has a small farm	and a restaurant.
The farm has chickens	and cows.
He also grows fruits	and vegetables.
Here's the waiter.	He will take us to our table.
Waiters have	a hard job.
First, they bring you	to your table.
The second thing they usually do	is bring you the menu.
The third thing they do	is bring you something to drink.
You can choose	from what's on the menu.
No, you have to eat dinner	before you can eat ice cream.
Moby, Uncle Joe	has some trouble today.
Moby, maybe you and I can work here	just for today.
Can you	be a waiter?